Theatrical And Otherwise—Remarks In The Foyer.

CHAS. GARDNER.

Handsome and talented Charles A. Gardner, known as "Karl, the sweet singer," and the famous German comedian, will appear in his clever comedy, "Karl, The Peddler," Saturday night at the Paris Grand. The play portrays the life of a heroic German developing an interesting story of love and devotion and an intense heart interest. The scenes are laid in the Australian Tyrol and are reproductions of photographic views of his picturesque country. The naturalness of the action of the piece is considerably heightened by the introduction of plenty of singing and dancing. Mr. Gardner will render all of his famous songs.

SOUTH BEFORE THE WAR.

The attraction to-night at the Paris Grand will be Harry Martell's mammoth production "The South Before The War." The company, which numbers fifty people, travels in private cars, and is said to contain many capable actors. The play contains many scenes that are especially interesting to the
